

Fajrin Hardinandar

Development Economist | Asian Political Economy Scholar

📍 Hualien, Taiwan ✉ fhardinandar@gmail.com 🌐 fajrinhardinandar 📖 Google Scholar

Professional Summary

Fajrin Hardinandar is a doctoral student at National Dong Hwa University, Taiwan, and a lecturer at Universitas Muhammadiyah Bima, Indonesia.

His research focuses on inequality studies, applied international trade, institutional economics, and applied policy analysis in the Asian context.

Contact Details

Email: fhardinandar@gmail.com

Institutional email: 811342008@gms.ndhu.edu.tw

Education

Ph.D. Student National Dong Hwa University , Applied International Trade, Applied Economics, Inequality, Deglobalization, Asian Context • MOE Elite Ph.D. Students Award • NDHU Excellent Scholarship	Hualien, Taiwan 2024 – present
---	-----------------------------------

Master of Economics Universitas Diponegoro , Regional Economics • Master of Economics	Indonesia
---	-----------

Experience

Universitas Muhammadiyah Bima , Lecturer • Lecturer in the Faculty of Law and Economics, Universitas Muhammadiyah Bima	Bima, Indonesia present
--	----------------------------

Institute of Social Economics Finance and Digital , Researcher • Conducts policy-oriented research on regional development and macro-socioeconomic issues	Central Java, Indonesia present
---	------------------------------------

Publications

Prosperity and Income Inequality Dynamics in Selected ASEAN Countries: How the Rule of Law Moderates Published in Asian Development Review, Volume 43, Issue 2. Fajrin Hardinandar, Yu-Li Wang 10.1142/S0116110526500058 (Asian Development Review)	2026
---	------

Skills

Empirical Methods: Panel Data, IV/2SLS, Shift-Share Bartik

Software: R, Stata, LaTeX

Languages

Indonesian: Native

English: Professional working proficiency

Research Interests

Income inequality

Poverty

Applied international trade

Institutional economics

Political economy

Regional development

Public policy

Applied econometrics